

Products & Services Ag Lending

Wyoming Community Bank is a locally owned bank. We take your success and your challenges seriously. For we know as you succeed, we will be successful. We have the expertise and desire to provide you with all of your agricultural loan needs. From Lines of Credit to meet that cash flow, installing that pivot, or upgrading your equipment. We offer variable and long term fixed interest rate loans for real estate purchases. We stay very active in the Farm Service Agency Loan guarantee program. We are fully staffed by local residents that make local decisions, we are your community bank.

Come see us and compare. We want and would appreciate your business, and will work hard to earn it.

Employee Feature

Dan Moline was raised on a family cattle ranch near Aladdin, Wyoming and continues to be involved in the operation today. Upon completing four years in the Marine Corp, Dan came to Riverton after graduating from UW in June 1980 as a new loan officer for Federal Land Bank. It took a couple of years to get used to dry sagebrush grazing, irrigated farming, and the variety of the local business environment to call Fremont County home. Dan and Kathy were married in 1982 and raised two sons who also graduated from UW, majoring in music.

Dan has been active in many community organizations and continues to serve on the City of Riverton Planning and Zoning Commission and as Council Member of St. John Lutheran Church. Dan enjoys farming his yard/garden and doing many remodeling projects on their home. Dan and Kathy like finding new camping spots and occasionally learning from Gary Albrandt how to use a Dutch oven.

Due to the economy in the 80's and 90's, bank mergers, office closings, and employee downsizing, Dan worked for a number of various banking institutions. Never one to sit still between banking jobs, Dan worked with Spectrum Insurance Agency, Wyoming State Engineers office (researching water rights), and as a laborer for Spain Sprinklers

Dan's first taste of local, community banking was at Riverton State Bank prior to helping start up Wyoming Community Bank in May 1999. He loved the concept as compared to larger corporate banks. The flexibility in doing agricultural and commercial loans and the ability to provide prompt customer service has been very enjoyable. While the local and state economy is showing some stress, Dan has faith that it will turn around as it has through two other cycles during his banking career in Wyoming.

Fremont County Fair

Directors Kent Shurtleff and Jared Kail

Wyoming Community Bank is proud to continue its support of our youth. We have consistently been a buyer at the Fremont County Livestock Sale, enabling our youth to complete their fair projects. This year Wyoming Community again sponsored the Buyers Luncheon after a long, busy morning at the auction. Great food and great friends all together to support our 4-H and FFA youth for a better future.

Labor Day Golf for Hospice

Over Labor Day Weekend, Wyoming Community Bank held their annual golf tournament with a twist. This year Wyoming Community Bank decided to lend a hand to Help for Health Hospice.

Wyoming Community Bank and Help for Health Hospice joined forces for an awesome golfing event. Everyone had a great time and helped a good cause. There were over 20 volunteers helping from both organizations.

Bank President, Scott Estep, presented a check for $9,500 to Help for Health Board President, Mary Margaret Stockton, at the beginning of the tournament on Monday.

According to Mary Margaret Stockton, "Help for Health Hospice is very thankful for the support and faith the Bank has shown them over the years, but this was 'over the top.' Help for Health will continue its promise to the community to never turn anyone away due to inability to pay. Help for Health also wishes to express their gratitude to those who played in the tournament and donated their winnings throughout the two days.

With community support, Help for Health will continue to fulfill their mission of honoring our commitment to serve our community one person at a time."
